EACES WORKSHOP

The Economic Development of China and India: Determinants, Features and Consequences

University of Perugia
Perugia (Italy), Friday 26 June, 2009

Call for Papers

The Workshop is organised by the European Association for Comparative Economic Studies (EACES) with the support of the University of Perugia (Department of Economics, Finance and Statistics, Faculty of Political Sciences and Faculty of Economics) and the Italian Association for Comparative Economic Studies (AISSEC) within the context of the 17th AISSEC Conference at the University of Perugia (June 25-27, 2009).

We look forward to receive papers of all profiles, including papers with both theoretical and empirical analyses, by young and senior economists, which relate to the topic of the Workshop (Determinants, Features and Consequences of the Economic Development of China and India). A comparative perspective will be appreciated, but papers' selection will be primarily based on quality rather than on preferences for particular topics.

The participation at the EACES Workshop is free, but we cannot refund any costs. Young scholars can apply for (partial) financial support.

Preliminary versions of papers (or long abstracts) should be sent to Marcello Signorelli signorel@unipg.it and marcello.signorelli@tin.it no later than February 28, 2009. Information about the acceptance of the proposed papers for the EACES Workshop will be sent by the end of March 2009. The papers selected and presented at the EACES Workshop will be published, after a referee process, in a book or in a Journal with international diffusion.

All the relevant information will be put on the EACES website: <http://www.eaces.net/>

As for information on AISSEC Conference, see the website: <http://economia.unipr.it/aissec/>
